It's happening all over the world. Our ocean resources are being compromised. This is just one published example of our diminishing ocean resources. For the rest of the world, it is an unknown quantity. Who knows what all is being kept a secret for fear of reprisal.

I believe that it is mission critical for this information to be readily consumed by all. This is no time to be withholding critical environmental issues and threats for any reason.
